He has always been exceedingly careful in money matters, and made a bit in mining when in New Zealand.

......Some days ago Gov. St. John of Kansas addressed a letter to Jay Gould, setting forth the condition of the farmers in the frontier counties of Kansas, and the destitution occasioned by failure of last year's crops in that region, and urging that some measure of relief be afforded them at once. In response to this appeal, Mr. Gould telegraphed the Governor to draw upon him for $5000, to be expended as he may see fit, in the places where assistance is required. Accordingly, the governor purchased two carloads of flour and meal and a large quantity of bacon, and shipped them to the destitute farmers. The governor thinks the amount contributed by Gould will be sufficient to prevent any suffering. The principal distress is among settlers who had purchased their land of the Kansas Pacific Railroad, now under Gould's control.

Melinda—I suppose so.

Minister (taking off his hat)—Do you, Algernon Smithkinson, take Melinda Dusenbury to be your wedded wife for better for worse till death do you part?

Algernon—I do.

Minister—Do you, Melinda Dusenbury, take Algernon Smithkinson to be your wedded husband for better for worse till death do you part?

Melinda—I do.

Minister—Then I pronounce you man and wife, and whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Make the most of it. Ten dollars. Good day.—[N. Y. World.

Florida bids fair to become a formidable rival to the orange countries of the old world in a very few years. Statistics from a single county (Putnam) show that the yield of oranges for 1879 was 5,461,038, making a revenue of $82,500. It has been demonstrated by actual results that each acre of full bearing orange trees will yield a revenue of $1,000 per acre. The number of blooming trees that will bear next year is thirty thousand, and the number that will come in the year following is twenty-nine thousand more. The average yield of each of these trees two years from now will be at least forty oranges, making an aggregate fruitage of the total blooming and coming bloom of 2,300,000, which at $15 per thousand, would yield an income of $35,000 to Putnam county from that source alone. To this is to be added the product of the present bearing trees, assuming the yield to be no greater than of this year, and there is a grand total income of $118,000.

THE UTE DELEGATION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Referring to newspaper comment affecting the treatment of the Ute question, Secretary Schurz said today: Ouray is not shut up in his hotel so that he may not learn the legality of his claims for grievances. Ouray sees whosoever he pleases, talks with whosoever he wants to talk with, and has all the information about every aspect of the case he desires. Furthermore, Ouray is completely in the confidence of the Government, and scarcely a word is said about the matter which he does not know of. In fact, it may be said he is the confidential friend of the government as well as the true representative of his people. He is a man of good sense and understands the situation perfectly, and his views on every point always receive the greatest consideration.

THE "EXODUS" INVESTIGATION.

The Senate committee on the exodus today continued the examination of Mr. Wall, President of the Emigration Society, and took a large amount of interesting testimony from James E. Hoard, a prominent colored Republican of Halifax county, now contesting a seat in Congress from the Second North Carolina District. Mr. Wall said the Society was organized with a view to facilitating the exodus from Mississippi, and other southwestern states, and the recent emigration from North Carolina was only incidental to a general movement. He believed the colored people were treated better in North Carolina than in the southwestern states, but as the soil was poorer the number of emigrants from that state would be relatively about as large as from the more southern region. He also believed the exodus from the south was spontaneous; that it would continue until the colored people received better treatment there, and that then very probably there would be a return drift southward, for the negro loved the home of his parents and would not emigrate without some strong incentive.

A REQUEST FROM THE PERUVIAN GOVERNMENT FOR RECOGNITION.

A communication from Mr. Christiancy, United States Minister to Peru, was also brought to the attention of the Cabinet. Mr. Christiancy has been requested, as representative of the United States, to recognize the present government or Peru, and not desiring to act without first consulting with the administration, asked for instruction. It was decided to authorize Mr. Christiancy to use his own discretion in the matter.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

The Senate committee on Territories today unanimously agreed to report back the nomination of Eli H. Murray, of Kentucky, for Governor of Utah, with a recommendation that it be confirmed.

Miss Josephine Meeker will testify before the Indian affairs committee tomorrow concerning the massacre of her father by the Utes.

NEW YORK NEWS.

THE CASE OF TALMAGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The complaint of the twenty-two Presbyters who dissented from the decision of the Presbytery in refusing an investigation to Rev. Dr. Van Dyke, Dr. Wells and others, in regard to the allegation of moral rottenness, as charged by Rev. Dr. Talmage in his pulpit on Dec. 7th, 1879, has been completed, signed by the complainants, and sent to the Moderator. The complaint concludes as follows:

This action of the Presbytery is fitted to bring dishonor and contempt upon our church, inasmuch as it leaves in good standing either a number of ministers and ruling elders, who are guilty of gross sins, or the minister who has used his pulpit for the purpose of publishing false and scandalous accusations against his fellow Presbyters. In either case the situation is disgraceful and intolerable.

TILDEN'S UNPAID INCOME TAXES.

Some months ago the government filed a bill of discovery in the case of the United States vs. Samuel J. Tilden, propounding several hundred questions as to Tilden's income during the year enumerated in the complaint. Governor Tilden through counsel demurred to the bill, and Judge Blatchford decided against him, ordering that he should answer the interrogatories. From this order Governor Tilden appealed to the Supreme Court. Sixty days have now elapsed, and Governor Tilden has not yet filed an answer, claiming it is not necessary until the Supreme Court has decided the appeal. Today District Attorney Woodford moved before Judge Blatchford in the United States Circuit Court, for a further order to compel Tilden to answer the interrogatories at once, irrespective of the appeal, which was opposed by counsel on the other side. The case is set for argument next week.

EIGHTY-SEVEN CONVICTS PARDONED FROM A PENITENTIARY.

Its Overcrowded Condition.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 23.—Advices from Frankfort, Ky., report today that Gov. Blackburn has pardoned eighty-seven convicts from the state penitentiary. The reason for this wholesale exercise of executive clemency was the condition of the prison and its inmates, reported to the legislature Monday last. Besides its unhealthiness from dampness and bad ventilation, it was overcrowded. Originally intended for six hundred prisoners, nearly nine hundred were crowded within its pestilential walls.

Secrets of the Piano Trade.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The Times states that H. Vandyke has begun a suit against Steinway & Sons for $4000 alleged to be due him for services during the Centennial exhibition in securing them prizes for pianos and in procuring a man named Hale to manufacture pianos for Steinway and put the names of Chickering and of Weber upon them.

CURRENCY TINKERING STOPPED.

The Inter-State Commerce Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Mr. Buckner says that it is very evident to him and other members of the Banking and Currency Committee that the vote yesterday on his bill shows conclusively that Congress will not permit any interference with the financial question, and that, therefore, the country may rest assured that nothing will be done in the matter at the present session.

Reagan says he will get his inter-state commerce bill before the House at an early day, and believes that some measure of the sort will pass at the present session.

THE INTER-OCEANIC CANAL.

THE MATTER BEFORE CONGRESS.

Despatch of Government Vessels.—Foreign Governments to be Notified.—The Work to be wholly American.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The House Select Committee on the Inter-oceanic Canal had an important meeting today. The arrival of Lesseps with a full corps of engineers at Panama to commence operations in the construction of a canal to connect the two oceans, under French auspices, has induced our Government to call the earnest attention of Congress to this matter. The documents relating to it were laid before a special committee. The committee is understood to be in perfect accord with the Government.

It is not unlikely that United States vessels will shortly be despatched to waters adjacent to the two oceans, and that Secretary Evarts may take occasion to inform France and all other foreign governments that the Monroe doctrine is still paramount on this continent, and that no foreign power will be allowed to have control of this or any other important highway on this continent.

It is understood to be the purpose of the committee who have charge of this important matter to mature some plan that will meet the approval of our Government and Congress, looking to the construction of this great work under American organization.

YACHTING NOTES.

Commodore Robert Centre has sold his stanch iron cutter Vindex to E. D. Morgan, Jr., son of ex-Governor Morgan.

Alonzo Smith of Islip is building a 50-foot centre-board sloop, for racing purposes, for Mr. Cossitt of Philadelphia.

Gouverneur Carlright is having a 48-foot centre-board sloop built on Pottery Beach. She will be used for racing, should she prove fast on trial.

It is said that Mr. George Osgood contemplates lengthening the famous schooner Fleetwood by some 50 feet and converting her into a steam yacht.

The pretty and swift little schooner Peerless has been sold to Mr. Francis Hathaway of New Bedford, and Commodore Maxwell, her former owner and a skillful navigator, will build a 150-ton schooner for racing purposes.

The schooner-yacht Dreadnaught owned by C. J. Osborn, N. Y. Y. C., has been sold to Mr. Scott of Erie, Pa., who will sail her on the lakes hereafter. The price is variously reported from $15,000 to $18,000. Mr. Osborn will, it is said, build a large steam yacht, 175 feet over all.

Mr. E. A. Buck of the Spirit of the Times has purchased the steam yacht Promise from Mr. W. Belden, and his schooner Fleur de Lis has come into the possession of Commodore John Waller of the Dauntless. Mr. William Belden will build a 600-ton steam yacht at Chester, Pa.

Fancies in yachting, as in dress fashions change from year to year. Twenty years ago it was all sloops. Schooners were despised. Afterwards schooners, large and small, were the rage until lately, when sloops and so called cutters came in vogue once more. Now steam yachts will this season come more than ever into play in our pleasure marine.

A correspondent inquires if Queen Victoria is a great-grandmother. Queen Victoria's eldest daughter, the Princess Royal, married the Crown Prince of Germany, January 25, 1858. They have six children living; the eldest, a son, was born January 27, 1859, and will be 21 years of age next week. The second child by this marriage is Princess Charlotte, born July 21, 1860, and was married to the Hereditary Grand Prince of Saxe-Meineuger, February 18, 1878, and they have a daughter who is the great grand-daughter of Queen Victoria.

A drunkard at Battle Hill, Kansas, recently resolved to reform or die. Putting some deadly poison into a glass with whiskey, he locked himself in a room with the mixture. His plan was to conquer his craving for alcohol, if possible, and if his appetite overpowered him, kill himself with the drink that satisfied it. He was alone with the poison for six hours and then he drank it. His life was saved, however, by the timely efforts of a physician, and he was sent to an asylum for inebriates.

MORE TROUBLE IN MAINE.

Davis Determined to Overthrow the Conspiracy.

THREE COMPANIES OF MILITIA AT THE STATE HOUSE.

A Plot to Seize the Capital and Burn Private Residences.

AUGUSTA, Jan. 23.—It is the general impression that matters are in a more critical condition than they have been for some time. It seems a lull just before the storm. There are suspicious circumstances which lead to this alarm, in the crowds of men collecting at various points, and from information received from abroad.

The evidence of this alarm lies in the continuance of the organization among the Fusionists; the raising of money to sustain them in their action; the activity of Major J. L. Smith; the holding out of Sawyer, who claims to be the Secretary of the State; the drilling of secret clans of armed men; incendiary talk of the Greenback Labor Chronicle of Auburn, that the State House must be taken though it costs a thousand lives.

Those who imagine the Fusionists inactive and have abandoned their cause, are laboring under a mistake. While the government is not alarmed, they fully grasp the situation, and will make the State House perfectly impregnable. The first military company that ever entered the State House marched in at midnight tonight, the Capital Guards.

Pillsbury, Blood, Channing and others are known to be enrolling men in every county in the state. Men are collected in country towns ready for J. L. Smith's call, and Capt. Black, of Augusta, is drilling men nightly.

REINFORCEMENTS OF THE STATE HOUSE.

Mayor Nash addressed the following note to Gov. Davis tonight:

In view of the threatening attitude of persons hostile to the present government of the state, I fear my civil police force will be unable to sufficiently protect the public property of the Capitol, or even hold possession of the building itself, against such force as the public enemies seem to be willing and able to bring against it.

(Signed) CHAS. E. NASH.

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The Herald's Augusta special tonight says the whole situation has entirely changed. By tomorrow morning three companies of infantry, the Capital Guards, of Augusta, the Auburn Light Infantry and the Gardiner companies and the Androscoggin Light Infantry, will garrison the State House.

At ten minutes past 11 Gov. Davis and Inspector General Tilden arrived at the Adjutant General's office. In three minutes Gov. Davis authorized this startling but well-justified military movement. It was a timely act. The military authorities were out of patience with the politicians, who have for several days had the dominant influence at the State House.

This has been the most sensational of any night since the complications. But the rumors of stirring events to come were not baseless.

The Fusionists are, and have been organizing throughout the state under the guise of Greenback Clubs, and other names. A Fusionist company has been drilling down town in this city, and it has been ascertained to the satisfaction of the military authorities, that a concentrated attack upon the State House was likely to occur at any moment.

A PLOT TO BURN THE RESIDENCES

of leading Augusta Republicans was discovered tonight. Triangular bits of paper marked the doomed residences. They were tacked on after dark and were soon perceived by the vigilant police. Had the Governor not given his order for calling out the troops tonight, the military men at the State House were ready to abandoned their watch, which was likely to result in an inglorious ending. The orders for the militia were given out by General Chamberlain's Assistant Adjutant General, for the reason that a part of the militia would not, or it was feared would not, obey Governor Davis's order.

The Capital Guards garrison the State House tonight and partly relieved the worn-out police, who have been without sleep for many hours. A special train is ordered tonight from Lewiston. Probably the most aggressive movements of the state government will be to disperse the Fusionist Legislature and arrest every Fusionist official who persists in playing at government.

THE MAINE SITUATION.

All Quiet this Morning.—Unimportant Sessions of Both Legislature.

THIN ATTENDANCE IN THE FUSION LEGISLATURE.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 23.—The Fusion Legislature was thinly attended this morning. An order passed directing P. A. Sawyer, Fusion Secretary of State, to send notices to towns to send in valuations. There is little probability that the Fusion Senate will concur. If it should and Mr. Sawyer should proceed to send out circulars as Secretary of State, he will find himself in the grip of the law before three days, which will bring him to a serious contemplation of the realities of a State Prison residence.

WORK OF THE REPUBLICANS.

The regular Legislature, under suspension of the rules, passed to be engrossed a resolution looking to a change of the Constitution so that the Governor hereafter will be chosen by a plurality of votes.

NOTES AND RUMORS.

There are various rumors abroad. A deserter from the Fusion army reports that two hundred muskets are expected today at Monmouth from New York.

The State House Legislature adjourned to Monday at 4 P. M.

The State House guard is being reduced, but is put in such a condition that it will not be conducive to the longority of the individuals who may, even in heavy force, undertake to capture it.

The authorities of one of the largest hospitals in London lately took measures to ventilate all the drains and sewers in connection with their institution. Up to the time these alterations were made, pyæmic and erysipelas had almost driven the medical staff to despair. When the whole of the ventilation was completed, and as soon as the pressure was removed from the traps of the closets and lavatories, no fresh cases were found to occur. For months the hospital wards were free from both erysipelas and pyæmia. Suddenly, however, there was a fresh outbreak of these diseases, but it was noticed that the epidemic was confined to one of the surgical wards, built apart from the main building, on the pavilion plan, and having only one story. Close investigation proved that the ventilation pipe in this wing had been stopped up by a careless workman. When this was remedied all traces of the epidemic disappeared.

HOW THE SAVAGES LIVE.

The Utes live principally on bread and meat. When they can't get bread they live on meat, and when they can't get meat they live on bread. When they have a quantity of provisions on hand they eat it all up before getting any more. The same is true when they have a small quantity on hand. They are dirty. They are even very dirty. Their meat is generally permitted to lie about on the ground or any place. Each Indian family possessed any number of dogs, from eight to fifteen, and these animals help themselves to the meat. After they have satisfied themselves, and when the Indians become hungry, they cut off this same piece on which the dogs feed. They generally boil their meat, but sometimes they broil it. They put it in water and let it remain only a few minutes, just long enough to heat, when they take it out and begin to eat. They use the same water and the same pail for boiling over and over again until the water becomes a perfect slime of filth. One pot generally does service for the entire family. This particular pot is a frying pan. When the Utes get out of bed they wash their faces and bathe the baby in it, after which they bake the bread and boil the meat. Then they eat out of the vessel, and then the dogs lick up the leavings. They clothe themselves with skins of animals or with blankets. They generally take a blanket or a skin and cut a hole in the middle of it and throw it over their heads, cutting arm-holes and fastening the garment at the waist with a wide belt while they close up the neck with a buckskin. When the garment wears out they cut the string and let it drop, but not before. Sometimes the Indians will wear as many as five of these garments at a time, always keeping the cleanest one on the outside.

A NEW STYLE OF EMBROIDERY.

A new style of embroidery has been invented by some ingenious person, in which fish scales are used in various ways to produce charming effects, either in imitating natural objects, such as birds or flowers, or by arranging them in set figures in harmonious combinations of color. If one wishes to get an idea of the effects which may be produced, it may easily be done by examining the imitation of mother-of-pearl, by which portfolios and Japanese fancy boxes are ornamented. The scales need be prepared for use only by washing in pure water, and perforating with a needle at the base of the scale. Very handsome patterns in flowers may be cut with small, sharp scissors, and sewed upon dark colored velvet. Small shells are sometimes used in finishing the design, the full blown flower being made of single scales, and the buds of tiny pink shells. The stalks may be made of silk or silver thread. Seed pearl beads may also be used for stamens, and be made to cover the overlapping of the scales. The beauty of the work depends more than ordinarily upon the taste of the worker, for the pattern must vary with the color and size of the scales, and some faculty for adaptation will be always necessary in carrying out a design.—[Ladies' Floral Cabinet.

HOW HE PUNISHED HER.

Scene, a theatre. Seated in the orchestra, a lady and a gentleman; the former much enamored of the latter—in fact desirous of winning him. The lady, however, has flirting tendencies, and indulges them with a handsome party in the circle. The escort is not unobservant of this little by-play, and finally asks, smilingly:

"Do you know that gentleman with whom you are flirting?"

An embarrassed negative is the reply.

"Then excuse me a moment."

The escort immediately crosses the theatre, and puts a similar question to the other conspirator.

"Sir, you are acquainted with the lady at whom you have been smiling this last half hour?"

"No."

"Would you like to be?" pleasantly.

Very much surprised, "Certainly."

"Then come with me."

A moment later the escort introduces the not altogether comfortable pair. Then the mild expression leaves the insulted gentleman's face, and he says sternly:

"Now, sir, you may accompany this lady home."

With a bow he takes his leave, and the woman who loves him never hears his voice again.—[Manchester Union.

A day or two since a quiet and dignified gentleman was walking through the street, when he was startled by a woman who rushed up to him all out of breath, and seizing him by the arm she gesticulated wildly and panted out: "Whistle, sir, whistle!" He looked at her in amazement, and while he stared she again urged him: "Whistle! whistle!" He finally found breath to tell her that he wasn't much of a whistler, but if he would nominate the tune he would do the best he could. Her eyes flashed, and she showed decided anger as shook him by the arm again and again and said: "Whistle! whistle!! whistle!!!" He stared more than he spoke, until with one arm stretched out toward a retreating street car, she shook him off and said something that sounded to him: "Confound a fool that can't whistle to a street car to accommodate a lady."

An Auburn sportsman explains why he receives the numerous sea-serpent stories of the season with a grain of allowance. He was hunting on the shores of a lake in the wilds of Michigan, when he saw what "I believed to be a monster snake, fifty or sixty feet in length, and ten or twelve inches in diameter, with humps on its back some two feet in length. At first its course was almost directly toward my place of concealment." When he was about to fly for his life, the serpent, then a few rods away, changed his course, and resolved himself at once into a colony of otter swimming in single file. His inference is that sea animals may sometimes travel in the same manner, and give sailors the opportunity of drawing the long bow.

WISDOM.

Choose such pleasures as recreate much and cost little.

To him that lives well every form of life is good.

Friends are won by those who believe in winning.

Life is too short for its possessors to wear long faces.

Liberty and work, these are the noblest prerogatives of man.

Teach your children to respect their elders and themselves.

Every person is sure of at least one good friend if he will not abuse himself.

Have the courage to wear your old clothes until you can afford to pay for new ones.

Happy is he who has learned this one thing—to do the plain duty of the moment, quickly and cheerfully, whatever it may be.

An act by which we make one friend and one enemy is a losing game, because revenge is a much stronger principle than gratitude.

Much charity which begins at home is too feeble to get out doors, and much that begins out doors never gets into the home circle.

The world is a bee-hive in which we are all hunting for honey; the few are successful, but the many only receive stings and pains in the effort.

No one is so greatly to be feared as the man who is willing to tell you all he knows, because the chances are that he will tell you a great deal more.

Up to Wednesday the Parnell Committee in New York had sent to Dublin $8750 for the land League, and only $700 for the famine fund. This makes it tolerably clear that the lion's share of the proceeds of the Parnell agitation is to be devoted to political uses. Charitable folk will probably govern themselves accordingly.

SEEMING TO BE.

A man seems to be when he isn't. This is natural. We seem to live when we merely risk and when we are dead we often have the deceitful appearance of life. This "seeming to be" pervades humanity. But Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur not only seems but is the great specific for consumption, bronchitis, diphtheria, coughs, croup and all diseases of the throat and lungs. It cannot be surpassed. Druggists have it for $1 a bottle.

Newport Daily News, and the Newport Journal.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon (Sundays excepted), at the News building, 137 Thames street, by Davis & Pitman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, the latest markets and a complete and comprehensive summary of the news,—local and general. The Journal is a large 32 column paper and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from this city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $5 per annum, or 12 cents a week, payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the WHOLE YEAR is paid STRICTLY IN ADVANCE.

These terms are invariable.

ADVERTISING RATES,

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines, or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter, are charged for, at 50 per cent. extra and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for one week or longer. Funeral notices 50 cents each. Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business and are allowed twenty-five changes a year. The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both the News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

Connected with the News is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

The job office has recently been supplied with new type and a new press, especially adapted to fine work. Liberal supplies of choice papers, envelopes and cards, always on hand. Prices as low as possible for first class work.

This is good weather for skating—on rollers.

Cold weather in Ireland adds to the distress there.

The mills, shops, and founderies of the United States were never busier than at the present time.

Two men quarrelling on a bridge at Georgetown D. C. fell in the canal, and were both drowned.

There is a growing conviction that some changes are needed in the management of the Republican party in Rhode Island.

Earthquake shocks were experienced at Havana on Thursday and Friday. Nobody was injured, but the people were badly frightened.

The General Assembly meets next Tuesday to part no more until after the nominating conventions of the political parties are held next spring.

The New York Scratchers have effected a permanent organization. If it were not for the Greenbackers they might be called the third party. As it is they must take a lower number.

An appropriation of $160,000 for the erection of a monument at Yorktown, and $20,000 to defray the expenses of the proposed celebration, will be recommended by the committee appointed by Congress.

The windows of two jewelry stores were robbed in New York last evening of valuable jewels, the glass being broken with stones. Though the alarm was given and people were passing on the sidewalk at the time, none of thieves were captured.

If we were to say who was our first choice for next President it would be Gen. Grant. But as it is evident that the people will not tolerate a third term and that Grant cannot be elected, we should be happy to vote for Edmunds, Sherman, Garfield, Hayes, or some other equally good man.

Two freight trains collided yesterday on the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad. An engineer, fireman and brakeman were killed and three other hands badly injured; two locomotives and twenty cars were totally wrecked. The telegraph operator failed to deliver orders to hold the train. Threats are made to lynch him, and the Sheriff has put him in jail and placed fifty men to guard him.

Attaching a dinner is something quite unusual. And yet we read that President Porter of Yale College recently sat down to dinner at New Haven, Conn., with the other members of the Yale faculty and their guests and was astonished to learn that the dinner had been attached by the sheriff. A shrewd Boston merchant had taken the opportunity to force a New Haven hotel keeper to pay a debt of five hundred dollars, and the money was paid before the dinner was eaten.

Illinois makes a wonderful exhibit in her resources for raising Indian corn. Though the Western states do not raise as much per acre as does Massachusetts and Rhode Island the aggregate is immense. The land devoted to this grain amounted to 7,918,881 acres; the average yield was nearly 39 bushels to the acre, giving a total yield of 305,813,377 bushels, and the value of the crop was $97,483,052. These figures are the highest ever returned, and, with the single exception that the average value per bushel was slightly smaller, every item shows an increase. The acreage was larger, the average production per acre was the largest ever reported, and the gross yield and its value exceeds those of every former year. The immense growth of a state so old as Illinois in this decade is shown by the fact that the corn grown in 1870 was under 130 million bushels. It may be added that the production of corn in Illinois in 1879 amounted to 40 per cent as much as the entire production of the whole country in 1870.

Though Maine is disturbed the icemen are jubilant over the prospect of a short crop of ice south of that state. It is stated that they are cutting a good article of 11 to 13 inches in thickness in that state and that some large contracts for Winter shipment have been made. Several contracts varying from 10,000 to 25,000 tons have already been concluded for New York account, and the chances are that coasting vessels will have plenty of employment in taking it there during the year. The present rates are $1 to $1.25 per ton, which though low, pays very well for vessels carrying coal East. The ice industry of Maine has grown to be next in importance to her lumber and fishing industries. The article is extensively exported thence to ports all along the Atlantic coast to Mexico, and also to the West and East Indies and South America, thus bringing much money into the state. But it is too early to conclude that we are to have no ice crop in this locality. The time has been when our ice harvest was in March and when the cold in that month was so intense that the harbor was frozen. And what has been may be again.

The corner in the wheat market affects all classes of the community unfavorably. An exchange says there is likelihood of an attempt on the part of the bear operators to cause a decline in the stocks of the trunk railroads leading to the seaports by maintaining the grain lock-up in Chicago. The through East bound freight business is falling off to a large extent. The five Eastern trunk lines carried during the week ending Jan. 17, 27,637 tons of grain, flour and provisions, against 33,479 tons during the previous week, and the entire falling off is on one grain alone, whose tonnage is reduced thirty-five per cent. from that of the first week in January. A reduction in railroad rates was talked of to break the blockade, but the New York railroad committee, which has just adjourned, offered no relief in this quarter. Complaint comes from New York of a large fleet of idle vessels awaiting cargoes, and an excess of tonnage is reported at other ports. There are sixty-two vessels at Philadelphia, and seventy-one at Baltimore awaiting tonnage. According to the Chicago Tribune, the amount of provisions and breadstuffs now in store in that city, and owned there, is much larger than usual, amounting to $26,020,000, of which $13,700,000 is provisions, and $9,890,000 wheat.

The complications in the state of Maine grow more and more serious. The plot formed at Washington and New York to steal the state is, it possible, yet to be carried out. The Fusionist conspirators in defiance of the Supreme Court and of all the principles of law and order have been secretly drilling armed men and getting ready to make a descent on the State House and capture the state property. As matters stand it is no longer a simple conspiracy, but a rebellion. Mayor Nash of Augusta, having ascertained what was going on, felt obliged to call on the Governor to help keep the peace. In response to his call and in view of the fact that armed men were gathering in all parts of the state, a military company took possession of the capitol at midnight, and at latest accounts was in possession. Other companies have received marching orders, and the excitement is intense. Unless there is a change for the better very soon there will be fighting and bloodshed. We have but little faith in the report that the conspirators had arranged to burn the houses of leading Republicans, for though they have shown themselves bad men, they could scarcely be expected to engage in so diabolical a plot as that. But the situation is bad enough and the reports from Maine bode no good to American institutions. As this is but the beginning of the Presidential campaign and foreshadows the plans of certain managers the prospect is anything but hopeful.

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

Matches tipped with an exceedingly dangerous compound have found their way into the market.

The new Worcester Directory contains 20,384 names, an increase of 1160 over last year.

New Yorkers have spent more money on floral decorations at social entertainments this season than ever before.

Spring is fairly inaugurated in Georgia. The trees are budding, the gardeners are at work and the farmers are busy plowing.

Those who have good digestive organs may partake of nuts quite freely during the winter. A certain amount of fat is necessary, and the oils of nuts are purer than those obtained from animal food.

Three of Rev. W. H. H. Murray's fine colts have been sold at good prices, and some grain has been disposed of. A small dividend will probably be declared to creditors outside of the preferred class.

Two opera companies have canceled their engagements in Ottawa, Ont., on account of the prevalence of small pox, and it is reported that objection is made to holding the coming session of Parliament there for the same reason.

The brig Carrie Purrington has arrived at New London, Conn., from the Canary Isles with a cargo of vegetable ivory and cochineal valued at $100,000. The ivory goes to Essex, to be made into knife handles and rules and the cochineal is consigned to a Hartford house.

Nothing is more deceptive than measuring fluids by dropping; since the drops from the lips of a vial vary, chiefly according to the different force of the attraction of cohesion in different liquids. The graduated glass measure used by apothecaries is the only certainty.

The Chinese are not so generally addicted to the use of opium as is commonly supposed. The Chinese Review makes a calculation on the subject, based on the amount of opium imported and grown in the country, from which it appears that not ten per cent. of the adult males can possibly smoke opium.

Mr. Field yesterday accepted and placed in immediate rehearsal an entirely new and original comedy, written expressly for the Boston Museum by Messrs. T. R. Sullivan of this city and W. W. Chamberlin of Worcester, the former of whom will be remembered as the successful adapter of "Papa Perrichon," "The Spark" and other pieces. The scene is laid at Newport and Blue Point, time, the present day; and we hear the most favorable reports of its brightness and originality. The cast will include all the leading members of the company.—[Boston Transcript.

A Baltimore firm has contracted with Henry Say of France for the construction of a steamer in which Mr. Say will continue his voyage around the world. Her length will be 250 feet, 32 beam, and 20 feet depth of hold. She will be driven by compressed engines, and all the machinery will be of the most approved kind; the accommodation for passengers will be below deck. The ship will cost $200,000, and is to be completed by next August. She is expected to be the finest vessel of the kind ever built in Baltimore, and will be designed more for safety than speed. M. Say has abandoned his intention of going around the world in the Henrietta.

THE CASINO BUILDING.—Work on the casino building is progressing rapidly. The present good weather has been fully improved, and the foundation walls are already mostly built. On one section the timbers are laid and a floor put down. Work on the northerly brick wall was begun yesterday several courses of brick being laid.

FOX HUNT.—For several days past Mr. Irving M. Barker, on the Paradise farm near the second beach, has lost several fowls and and ducks, which he laid to the depredations of dogs. Early last night, however, he saw a fox in pursuit of a hen. Mr. Barker drove the animal off but did not get a chance to shoot. This morning chase was given with a dog and several men. Reynard was started and the chase was in progress at last accounts. Five dollars reward is offered as a prize for the rogue's capture. This afternoon several men from Newport will join in the chase. It is presumed that the fox is one which escaped the dogs in one of the meets early last fall.

The Supreme Court at Providence yesterday made the following decision in the case, Thomas Phillips & Co. vs. William H. Newton, et al. This was an application under Chap. 723 of the Public Laws, for the appointment of a receiver of the property of William H. Newton, as an insolvent debtor, for the benefit of his creditors; the court are of the opinion that they have jurisdiction over any application for the appointment of a receiver under Chap. 723 only when the insolvent debtor which is proceeded against is a resident of the state at the time the application is preferred. They have not jurisdiction under the chapter over the property and effects of a non-resident debtor. The court are also of the opinion on the testimony admitted, that Newton had left this state and became a resident of the state of Iowa before the present application was preferred. The application is therefore dismissed. Messrs. Payne and Honey for defendants.

There is a transparent story afloat among the Chinese on the Pacific coast that workmen on the Northern Pacific road recently unearthed a Chinese altar of rich bronze near Ainsworth, Or., which was immediately shipped to the celestial empire. The altar was said to be eight feet long by four high and, as it was inscribed with Chinese characters, is held to support the theory that a Chinese tribe inhabited this country in prehistoric times.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

Miss Amanda Smith the colored evangelist, is doing much good in Bombay and Paori, India.

The highest salary in the Holston Conference, M. E. Church, South, last year, was $1,200; the lowest seventy-five cents and a deerskin.

Prof. Cocker is said to have almost a congregation of University students in his Bible class at the Methodist Church in Ann Arbor, Mich., on Sunday afternoons.

Professor David Swing has refused, it is reported, to have his salary raised from seven to ten thousand dollars, and has asked that the offered addition be used for charity.

The Reformed Episcopal Church now has ninety-seven ministers, of whom six are bishops. All have pari-hes. Sixty-four are here, fourteen in Canada, and nineteen in England.

What unthankfulness it is to forget our consolations, and to look only upon matters of grievance; to think so much upon two or three crosses as to forget a hundred blessings.—[Sibbes.

Among the bequests of the late Judge Packer, the railroad capitalist of Bethlehem, Pa., which, it is said, has just been announced for the first time, is the sum of $300,000, the interest of which is to be used for the support in St. Luke's Hospital, at Bethlehem, of workmen of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company who become crippled, sick, or too old to work while in the company's employment.

The question of teachers' salaries has been finally decided in Pittsburgh. The maximum salary in the primary department is to be $500, the minimum $300. In the grammar department, the maximum is to be $600, the minimum $500. The maximum to be paid assistant principals is $650, the minimum $600. The principals are to receive $1,100, $1,000 and $750.

Respectfully commended to the theological reconcilers of Genesis and modern science,—from the Christian Union: "If there is any question which, less than any other, has any practical bearing upon the questions of a religious life and character, it is how long man has been living on the earth, and in what particular manner God brought his body into its present condition."

The Examiner and Chronicle (it hopes to drop one of these names some day) has a timely and sensible article on the importance of keeping the members of religious societies regularly informed, at short intervals, of the financial condition of the church. There would be fewer deficiencies at the end of the year if all the members knew, once a month, just how the account stood. "Going it blind is as bad policy in a church as in business."

The Union Gospel Mission, 81 Hope street, Providence, R. I., a faith institution under the conductorship of J. E. Wolfe, formerly city missionary at Newburyport, has been opened day and night since the 1st of September, 1879. There is connected with it a free reading and coffee-room. It is especially patronized by the seamen, and has, under God, been a great blessing to many souls. Some 400 persons have signed the temperance pledge, and many have made a profession of faith in Christ.

It is announced that another important old manuscript has been found in a famous Greek monastery on Mount Athos, which, it is believed, "may throw some light on difficult passages in the Epistles of St. Paul." We doubt if any better light can be found for "difficult passages" in Paul than that which shines in the perfectly plain passages in the words of Jesus. The Founder of Christianity is not enough regarded as its best expounder.

A PERILOUS WIDOW.

An admirer of the beautiful, i. e., a gentleman who has read the Drawer for twenty years, and is still living, in Vermont, sends us this:

Democrats are the exception instead of the rule in Vermont, and it is unusual to see more than two or three gathered together. Widow — has buried three husbands, all prominent Democrats. At the funeral of the last, many of the "unterrified" were in attendance, and as they were leaving the the house a gentleman remarked, in an under-tone, "This looks like a Democratic State Convention."

The widow is soon to marry a fourth husband, who is also a noted Democrat, and as the matter was being discussed recently, Jim ——, who is one of the "true blues," said: "Boys, this thing is getting serious: at this rate the window will in a few years ruin the Democratic party of Rutland county."—[Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine for February.

The perils of pony mail carriers are shown in this relation in the Mammoth City (Col.) Times: "The pony mail was due, and its non-arrival caused many conjectures as to the fate of the unfortunate rider, William Haines. The poor man was found last Thursday by Mr. Ballinger and a young man named Bowen, who left here last Wednesday morning on snow shoes with the mail. Ballinger and Bowen found him half a mile north of Deadman's Station in the snow. He had spread his blanket and lain down to die. He left King's Station on Friday evening, while the storm was raging, hoping to reach Deadman's Station that night. The storm increasing in violence, he tied up the mule, made a fire and camped. The next day he started for Deadman's leading the mule, but succeeded only in accomplishing about half the distance. The next day he got but a few rods, camping that night without any fire. All this time he had not a mouthful to eat, and his sufferings can be imagined. When found he had given up all hope of rescue, being almost unable to move. His right arm was frozen solid—his left one being nearly as bad; his leg was frozen to the edge of his flannel drawers. At last accounts he was cheerful and doing as well as could be expected. Five men went out Thursday to bring him in, and yesterday two more, and today another party went to their assistance. One of the party that left on Thursday returned last night, his feet badly frostbitten, and stated that the remainder of the party would reach Mineral Park last night. They failed to do so, however."

A young man brought this in: "The palatial residence of our well-known citizen, John Smith, Esq., was last evening a blaze of light, the occasion being a récherché soirée in honor of the lovely Miss Smith's arrival home from the Academy. From early gloaming till 3 oclock were the guests arriving. At that hour all sat down to a most appetizing repast, to which was given the close attention it so well deserved. The large parlors were cleared for the merry dancers at the conclusion of the banquet, and until the wee sma' hours ayont the twal were reached, fair women and brave men tripped the light fantastic toe in the bewildering mazes of the dance." (Etc., etc., etc., and so forth.) When that young man got the paper and found these words, "There was a dance at Smith's last night"—only these and nothing more—he went out and hanged himself. —[Boston Transcript.

Remarked Bro. Gardner of the Limekiln Club—I fur one, Lev bin pained to observe a growin' desire on de part o' cull'd folkses to knock deir chill'en down with silver plated front names. Up in my block obery cabin hez a Hortense, or a Maud, or a Genevieve, who will grow up to go bar'fut in summer an' bend ober de washtub in winter. I believe dat half what ails de niggers nowadays am deir fancy names. I tell ye, dey am a powerful burden for a chile to carry. No young gal wid a big foot an' a mouf like a sasser am gwine to look any purtier fur bein' called Cleopatra Viva Clarabell. No, sah. Ize a believer in de good old-fashun names, sich as Polly, Dinah, Chloe, Sam, Tom an' Jim. Dar's sunthin' squar' an' honest in 'em, an' dey weigh sixteen ounces to de pound. Dis kentry am tryin' to git rid of 'em, an' banks am bustin' men stealin', towns burnin' tornadoes sweepin' o'er de land. I tell ye, an honest, straightforward name is half to'rds keepin' a chile honest, an' if I kept a grocery store I'd trust Moses all day long an' keep both eyes on Adolphus!—[Detroit Free Press.

TROUBLE IN THE CHOIR.

BY A. T. WORDEN.

There was something so unusual in the singing of the choir
That the Elder looked up mildly from the tenth of Jeremiah,
And with readjusted eyeglass looked along the foremost row,
While a hundred necks were twisted in a stare from all below.

As before the rolling thunder comes a distant, wailing moan,
There was presage of disturbance in the very organ's tone,
Just the popping of the pickets, ere the battle's awful din,
Or the tuning of the fiddles ere the orchestra begin.

An unprejudiced observer might have seen with half an eye
There was waiting an explosion that would blow them all sky-high,
Or spontaneous combustion to accept a modern name,
That was waiting just a motion to burst forth into flame.

The Soprano sat in grandeur, with her book before her face,
With her back comb turned in anger on the Alto and the Bass;
While the Tenor stood beside her with an elevated nose,
And the Organist pawed madly at the pedals with his toes.

How could any one but Angels sing when they were feeling so,
Though the hymn was "Songs of Gladness," they would make it "Sounds of Woe."
When we sing about devotion, some devotion we must feel,
Or our plaintive tones of worship will partake somewhat of squeal.

But the Alto sung her solo, and then left it to the Bass,
Who was gnawing at his moustache, and was looking for the place;
While the Organist, in anger, sung the leading part alone,
And the Tenor tried to follow, but it ended in a groan.

As the horror-stricken people heard the discord rising higher,
It was patent to the simplest there was trouble in the choir,
And the Organist, in fury, closed the organ with a crash,
And the Alto sobbed in anguish, and the choir had gone to smash.

When the Elder went among them with a view to reconcile,
The Soprano told her story with a sanguinary smile;
It appeared the wretched Chorister had introduced a girl
With a brand-new style of singing, and a most distracting curl.

But, to cap the bitter climax, this usurper wore a hat,
Just a duck, a gem, a beauty, and it made the rest look flat;
And the straw that broke the camel's back and made the wreck complete—
She came early Sunday morning, and usurped the leading seat.

When the Elder asked the Tenor why he left, he said: "Because
The Soprano said his chest-tones sounded just like filing saws;
And he overheard the Alto one night whisper to the Bass,
That a man with such a moustache was a palpable disgrace."

And the Bass informed the Elder that he sacrificed his views
When he came and joined the Elder's choir, to help fill up his pews,
He was an Episcopalian, and if people thought he'd take
Any nonsense from a Baptist, they had made a great mistake.

Then the Organist and Alto both put on an injured look,
Saying something in an undertone about a change of book;
And the Elder overheard them, as he gently closed the door,
Use the words, "A poor old Fogy," and "A sentimental Bore."

And he scratched his poor old noddle, as he ambled down the street,
With his spectacles on forehead and his slippers on his feet;
And I really think the Elder has a hope of pouring oil
On the troubled sea of music, to allay the sad turmoil.

In the meantime service opens with old "China" or "Bethune,"
And the Deacon with his tune-fork gives the people all the tune;
And the organ gathers cobwebs, and the people gather grace,
While they roar out "Coronation" to the Deacon's hoarse bass.

A RICH DISCOVERY OF COIN.

It has just been learned that early on a certain morning last summer a lad engaged in repairing the drain of a house in Rome came upon a quantity of buried coin dating from the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, and very rich in value, being gold. The lad at first found only a single piece. This he put into his pocket, and when occasion offered he showed it to a goldsmith across the way and agreed to sell it for $1. As the bargain was about to close the head mason and the owner of the house happened to see the transaction, and went across the street to put an end to it. Further search was made for coin in the same spot, and 142 gold pieces were unearthed between the drain and the wall of the house. A quantity of dirt which had been taken away from the drain and was on the road in carts to a point outside the walls was sent for, and forty-two more pieces were taken out of it making 184 gold coins of the largest size and as fresh as if they had just been taken from the mint. As works of art, the pieces have special merit, and well they may, for the greater part of them were coined by Alexander VI., Julius II., Leo X., Clement VII., and Paul III., and hence belonged to the great art age. Some of them are said to be of exquisite beauty, and were done by artists who seem worthy to stand at the side of Donatello and Cellini.

It has been made a question whether or not our first parents were Peruvians. Dr. Rudolf Falb, whose linguistic researches in South America have already been noticed, has lately sent to a Vienna paper a summary of his conclusions. He says that the language spoken by the Indians in Peru and Bolivia, especially in Quichua and Aymara, exhibit the most astounding affinities with the Semitic languages, and particularly with the Arabic—in which tongue Dr. Falb himself has been skilled from his boyhood. Following up the lines of this discovery, Dr. Falb has found, first, a connecting link with the Aryan roots, and, second, has arrived face to face with the surprising revelation that "the Semitic roots are universally Aryan." The common stems of all the variants are found in their purest condition in Quichua and Aymara, from which fact Dr. Falb derives the conclusion that the high plains of Peru and Bolivia must be regarded as the point of exit of the present human race.

The British minister at Constantinople has addressed a note to the Porte demanding the dismissal of the defterdar (treasurer) of the Province of Angora, for having ill-treated a British subject. Insult was added to injury by the Turkish official, when the Englishman announced his intention of complaining to Her Majesty's consul. The defterdar impudently replied; "What do I now care for your consuls?" This is where the sting of the offence lies; and Sir Henry Layard demands full satisfaction from the Sublime Porte, for his country and compatriot alike.

FASHION NOTES

Artillery fatigue caps have replaced crush-hats among young New Yorkers.

The fashionable dog now is a King Charles spaniel. Blue Skyes, Pugs and Spitz are quite out of date.

Fine black illusion covered with seed dots of white is the newest lace to twist around the neck.

Deep violet and deep red, the colors of a lovely variety of the fuchsia, appear in a gown just sent out by a French dressmaker.

Two diamond battle axes are crossed to make one of the new lace pins, and in another a diamond bird droops from a diamond gun.

Large velvet pansies with silver leaves are mounted on white satin and used to trim half-mourning evening dresses for elderly ladies.

Among the truly elegant gowns made for the New York charity ball is a combination of sulphur velvet, emerald satin and Spanish lace looped by crimson roses. This gown cost $600.

Sets of dessert napkins, embroidered with fruit designs, make pretty bridal gifts. The work is placed in one corner of each napkin, and each device must differ from the others. A spray of strawberry vines, a bunch of grapes; a peach; a stem of raisins; an apple and an orange, fruit dear to household art, may all be used.

Princess gowns, the only sensible dress for little girls, are trimmed with contrasting colors for evening wear. A costume of blue watered silk is worn with a deep brown sack having a cashmere border two inches wide, and has a frill of the same ribbon all around its collar.

The celebrated pigeon roost in Scott county, Indiana, is now, as it has been for seventy-five years, the roost of millions of pigeons. They fly away in the morning to their feeding grounds, many of them going to such a distance that they do not return until midnight. The timber on thousands of acres covered by this roost is broken down badly, large limbs being snapped off like reeds, by the accumulated weight of the birds. Thousands are killed nightly, but the slaughter seems to make no diminution in the vast flocks that congregate there.

Egmont Key is described as a picturesque little isle on the Florida coast. It is not much wider than a Boston lassie's belt,—only one-half mile,—and a very little longer than her knowledge of Sanskrit,—only one and a half miles. Lighthouse-keeper Moore, its occupant, has a heron rookery that is a novel thing in its way. Last year he had five hundred nests, from which were produced 2500 birds. Moore looks upon them as his pets, and will allow no sportsmen to go near the rookery. Mullet Key, two miles distant, is the home of a large herd of deer.

Minister White was presented to Count Moltke at one of the court entertainments of Berlin. A noted statesman, who had read a biographical sketch of the American Minister, which appeared shortly after his appointment in a German magazine, performed the introduction in the following mode: "Count, let me present to you a gentleman from America who was born in Homer, lives in Syracuse and has founded a university in Ithaca." The Count looked very much puzzled at this union of America with so many classical names.

An Indianapolis reporter was recently sent to the poor house in his county disguised as a pauper, and, on being discharged a week later, printed nine columns to show the infamous brutality of the officers and employés of the institution. The details are very terrible, and an investigation will probably ensue.

Charles H. Hardin was hanged at Dellassus, St. Francis county, Mo., yesterday, for murdering Robert Ferguson the 26th of October. The prisoner confessed his guilt. Five thousand persons, including Ferguson's wife, witnessed the execution.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1880.

Edith's Lover.

Coming out upon the terrace where they stood alone together in the June twilight, I remember thinking what a handsome, noble-looking couple they made and how well it was that my mistress had chosen Mr. Hollis for her future husband when so many attractive young gentlemen aspire to the honor of her hand.

As I approached, Mr. Hollis was saying: "Tomorrow is our wedding day, dear Edith! Tomorrow! I can scarcely realize it. Ah, how proud and glad I am!"

My lady looked up at this moment, her cheeks all aglow, her eyes shining with happiness. Hearing my step she said in her gentle way:

"What is it, Jenny?"

"A strange woman has presented herself at the kitchen door, madame. She asked for you and will not be denied. She does not live in these parts, I think; her accent and dress are both peculiar. Good gracious, there she comes now, and I left her on the kitchen step!"

My mistress looked in the direction indicated and beheld a drooping, forlorn figure slowly advancing from the rear of the house.

She changed color and drew back with a startled cry:

"Mrs. Hawkins?"

The woman came nearer and paused on the upper step, looking curiously about her.

"Forgive me for comin'," she said, in a low, broken voice. "It ain't right to be troublin' one like you. But what could I do with him beggin' and pleadin' and frettin' himself ill? I hadn't the heart to refuse his prayer, and—"

"Hush!" My mistress drew her strange visitor hurriedly down the steps.

She was very pale, and trembled with excitement.

"No more now—I cannot listen," said she, in a whisper. "If you have any errand with me come again by and by when I am all alone."

The woman sighed heavily.

"Let me give you this note, ma'am—it's from him, an' I'll trouble you no more. You'll read it, and do all it asks, ma'am?" she added quite plaintively, as she thrust a bit of crumpled paper into my lady's hand.

"Yes, yes. Now go at once!"

"I will. But don't disapp'int him, ma'am, don't do it."

There was desperation in her voice and looks—perhaps even menace—as she turned and made her way with difficulty down the path.

Mr. Hollis naturally made some inquiry as to the strange visitor, but, at Miss Edith's solicitation, he dropped the subject, and soon afterward went away.

About ten o'clock that night my lady's bell summoned me to her chamber.

I found her sitting with her wraps on and a bit of paper—the same the woman had given her—clenched in her hand.

Her face wore a sadder expression than I had ever seen upon it before.

"Jenny," she said, turning in her chair as I entered, "do you know a place in the village called Holme's Cottage?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Good. Get your bonnet; I wish you to take me there. I wish to set out at once."

"But it is a long distance, madam; if you must go, shall I not order the carriage?"

"I do not wish this visit known to any one else in the house, Jenny. The servants would think strange of it. You, I am sure, are discreet and faithful."

We left the house by a side door, locking it and taking the key with us.

Presently we reached Holme's Cottage. It was a long, low building in the outskirts of the village, at some distance from any other dwelling. Since my knowledge of the house began, it had been occupied by the poorer class of tenants.

"Some one I wish to see is here," she said quietly. "Remain outside, Jenny, I shall not be long away."

She entered without knocking and closed the door. The next instant I heard a glad cry within, then a burst of sobs.

Suddenly Mr. Hollis confronted me, his face white and convulsed in the moonlight!

"Tell me," he said in a husky whisper, "was it Edith, my promised wife, that went in at yonder door?"

I could not speak, but my looks answered him.

He dropped my hand and was turning away, when a few agitated words came through the open window:

"Edith, I knew you would come! my precious darling, my wife! You were not so cruel as to forsake me utterly."

It was a man's voice, Mr. Hollis seemed to hear a simple word only of those it uttered.

"Wife!" he echoed, in a hollow tone. "Wife! Good God! And tomorrow was to have been our wedding day!"

In spite of my terror and bewilderment, I had the presence of mind to grasp his arm and drag him further away from that house.

"What brings you here!" I sternly demanded. "Why have you followed us?"

"I did not follow you; I am no spy; it was chance that brought me in this direction tonight. Nay, not chance," he added, with sudden vehemence, "but the providence of God."

Then, before I could say a word in reply, he had freed himself from my grasp and was striding down the shadow-haunted street.

Ten minutes later my mistress came out. She drew a deep breath as she clasped my arm, and I felt her tremble.

"Come, Jenny, let us get away from here quickly, I shall be glad to reach home again—so glad."

She looked so miserable and dispirited that I had not the courage to tell her what had occurred outside the cottage while she lingered within.

The next morning, while she was at breakfast, and the mystical air of the bridal preparations were going on in the house, one of the servants brought in a large package. She cut the cords, and out fell a heap of letters—the pure, dainty letters she had written from time to time to her lover—and the few books and keepsakes she had given him.

I saw her stagger, turn pale and catch her breath. Then she looked at me with a bewildered air.

"I—I—don't understand. Do you Jenny?"

The package and a brief note it contained were Deane Hollis's farewell.

My lady did not cry or faint. Flinging the note away, she clasped both hands to her forehead.

"My God! This is incomprehensible. What—what—does he mean?"

"I can tell you, madam."

And I did.

When she knew that Mr. Hollis had been at Holme's cottage the night before, and what he had overheard there, instead of sinking to the floor in shame and confusion, as I had expected, she sprang towards the door with a smothered sob of joy.

"Oh, heaven!" she said. "Come, Jenny, we have another duty to perform."

"Where are you going?" I said, looking at her wonderingly.

"Come and see. Heaven grant that we be not too late."

Scarcely waiting for her bonnet and shawl, she hurried me from the house.

Presently we reached a handsome mansion—Mr. Hollis' country seat. A carriage stood before the door and some one was just stepping into it.

"Oh, Deane, don't go! don't leave me—at least until I have been given a chance to explain! You have misjudged me; it is all a terrible mistake. Come with me to Holmes' cottage, do come. God knows I do not wish to keep any secrets from you; not one."

We all entered the carriage together and drove to Holmes' cottage.

"My son is dead," she cried. "He breathed his last soon after you went away last night. Oh, ma'am, won't you come in an' look at him. I'm sure it would please him could he but know."

We entered the poor little room and stood beside the couch on which the dead man lay.

The secret of Miss Edith's visit of the previous night was soon told. This rash, impetuous man had allowed himself to fall desperately in love with Miss Edith, the previous summer, in spite of the difference and the utter impossibility of his ever hoping to win a return of his affections.

When he realized that he must die, a prey to consumption, he begged to be taken to the vicinity of my lady's home, that he might be near her at the last.

He had had more or less delirium for some days previous to his death, and while this was on him had really fancied that Miss Edith was his wife, and spoke of her in his rambling way, as such.

"I could not despise his love, Deane, I pitied him so," my lady said, her beautiful eyes full of tears. "Do not blame me for seeking to hide the truth; it was for his sake. It seemed cruel to expose his weakness. Will you forgive me?"

He echoed the word and caught her to his heart.

"Forgive you! Oh, my darling, it is I who need to be forgiven!"

ARTHUR'S ELIXIR OF SULPHUR

TRADE MARK

A NEW MEDICINE FOR THE POSITIVE CURE OF CHRONIC THROAT & LUNG DISEASES AND CATARRH

THE MOST WONDERFUL DISCOVERY OF THE 19th CENTURY.

The curative, cleansing and purifying qualities of Sulphur have long been known by Physicians of every nation, who have thus used it freely despite its disagreeableness, and also as a preventive of disease, which latter quality has long been recognized by old and young, learned and unlearned.

WHAT A BLESSING

to suffering humanity that an Elixir compounded from Sulphur agreeable to the taste, yet all powerful in its action upon the system, has at last been discovered. To a chemist of the "Old Bay State" belongs the credit of discovering and perfecting

THIS SPECIFIC REMEDY,

Elixir of Sulphur, for the treatment of all Pulmonary Diseases, that have heretofore baffled the combined wisdom of the medical profession, far surpassing in efficacy Cod Liver Oil, Bitters, Tonics and every species of stimulants.

INVALIDS

whose stomachs are already over-sensitive and weak from disease, become nauseated at the mention of bitters and disagreeable mixtures and naturally become skeptical, and are reluctant to try new remedies. The testimony of so many living witnesses that has conquered that hydra-headed monster of diseases, Consumption, and its predecessors Catarrh and Bronchitis proves beyond cavil a grand victory and final triumph of the Elixir.

ELIXIR OF SULPHUR

A PROPHET IN HIS OWN COUNTRY

can be trusted abroad.
